- a. You're going to read an article about some tourist attractions in London. Before you read the article, analyze the paratext of the main text.

Vocabulary spot

The term paratext refers to the different statements that accompany the main text of a work such as the title, subtitle, preface, pictures, footnotes, table of contents, etc. These added elements form a framework for the main text and can help the reader understand the main text of the work.

Part A: Analyze the paratext of the article and answer these questions.

1. What is the title of the article?
2. Does the article have a preface?
3. What tourist attractions does the article mention?
4. How many pictures are there in the article?
5. What can you see in the pictures?
6. What is the source of the article?

8. There is an interesting exhibition about a prince in this building.
9. There is a fashion exhibition related to a princess in this building.
10. You should visit this place if you want to learn about the lives of the British monarchs.

Digital resources

You can write the information for exercise 2 a. on this sheet of paper or create a document using OpenOffice Writer or an online programme such as Evernote or Google Docs (you can check these tutorials OpenOffice Writer and Google Docs on the Virtual Campus of Digital Education). These tools, when saved in the cloud, allow you to have access to your documents from any digital device, so you can add more information to them at any time and make all the necessary changes to enrich them.

- b. Pair work. Imagine you're in London on holidays and a friend of yours invites you to go sightseeing around the city during the weekend.
1. Read the complete article "Top 10 London attractions", published at Visit London. Official Visitor Guide, and choose the places you would like to visit.
 2. On this website ESL Gold you will find vocabulary related to making plans. Choose the phrases that you want to include in the dialogue.
 3. Write down the dialogue using the vocabulary from both websites. Hand in the draft to your teacher. You will get some feedback.
 4. Re-write the dialogue taking into account the feedback from your teacher. Then, record the exchange with your partner and send the file to your teacher. You can use these applications Grabador de sonido Linux / Audacity to record the dialogue (check these tutorials Grabador de sonido Linux and Audacity on the Virtual Campus of Digital Education).
 5. If you feel ready, you can act out the dialogues in front of the class. Good luck!
- c. Imagine you want to tell your family and friends about your plans for the weekend in London. Write down some WhatsApp messages describing what places you're going to visit and what activities you're going to do.

Grammar spot

In English, when we want to talk about future plans we use the structure be going to. For example: I am going to visit Kensington Palace next weekend. My friends are going to take a tour around the Tower of London on Friday. On this website Woodward English, there are some interesting explanations about the grammar rules for this structure. Read the rules and then do the following exercises: Oxford University Press and English Grammar Online.

Write the WhatsApp messages here!

- d. Have a look at the following collage of people doing different activities during their holidays. Match the pictures next to the correct sentences.
1. The man is reading a book.
 2. The girls are walking in a park.
 3. The people are sailing in the sea.
 4. The man and the woman aren't having dinner at home. They are having dinner at a restaurant.
 5. The people are swimming and sunbathing.
 6. The woman isn't taking a photo with her cell-phone. She is taking a photo with her camera.

Grammar spot

The sentences in exercise d. are in Present Continuous. We use this tense to describe what a person is doing or to talk about activities at the moment of speaking. On this website British Council there are some interesting explanations about the grammar rules for the Present Continuous tense. Read the rules (Level Beginner) and then do the exercises Present Continuous 1 + and Present Continuous 2 + published on this section.

Pronunciation spot

The -ing form of the verbs always adds an extra syllable to the words and this syllable is unstressed. For example: [read /ri:d/ - reading /'ri:dɪŋ/], [walk /wɔ:k/ - walking /'wɔ:kɪŋ/], [eat /i:t/ - eating /'i:tɪŋ/]. On this website English Language Club you can practise the pronunciation of the “ng sound” /ŋ/. While you watch the video, repeat the words that the speaker mentions. Then, follow these steps to practise the pronunciation of these verbs: reading, eating, walking, sailing, taking, swimming, sunbathing, watching, writing and talking.

1. Look up the verbs in any of these dictionaries: Cambridge Dictionary, Oxford Dictionary or Collins.
2. Click on the pronunciation button and repeat the words.
3. Record yourself reading the verbs and send the files to your teacher. You can use these applications Grabador de sonido Linux / Audacity to record the verbs (check these tutorials Grabador de sonido Linux and Audacity on the Virtual Campus of Digital Education).
4. Record yourself reading these sentences and send the files to your teacher: My father is reading a novel; They are eating pasta; The kids are walking in the park; We are sailing down the river; The woman is taking a picture; The people are swimming in the sea; The man is sunbathing; Are you watching TV?; Paul is writing a novel; Is Mary talking on the phone?

- e. Group work. You're going to create a presentation about holiday activities. Follow these steps to get organized:
1. Choose some pictures of your holidays with your family or friends to include in the presentation. You have to describe what the people are doing and where they are.
 2. Decide what software you would like to use to make the presentation: PechaKucha, OpenOffice Impress, Google Slides, Prezi (you can check these tutorials OpenOffice Impress, Google Slides and Prezi on the Virtual Campus of Digital Education).
 3. Once you have all the pictures in slides, rehearse what you are going to say. If you want, you can record the descriptions with these applications Grabador de Linux /

Tourist attractions in London and Buenos Aires

Audacity or the recording applications of your computer, cell-phone, tablet, etc, and attach the files to the presentation. Send the files to your teacher beforehand to get some feedback. (Check these tutorials Grabador de Linux and Audacity on the Virtual Campus of Digital Education.)

4. Don't forget to check in advance all the technological devices (tablets, computers, pendrives, loudspeakers, etc.) that you're going to use for the presentation. Good luck!

Final task: Part B

Location:
Tourist attractions:
Recreational activities:
Festivals and celebrations:
Restaurants and bars:

3. Write down the posts including the information from the previous exercises and hand in the texts to your teacher. You will get some feedback.
4. Re-write the posts taking into account the feedback from your teacher and hand in the final versions.
5. Remember to keep all the information organized in the portfolios. Your teacher is going to assess your work based on these portfolios.

Digital resources

You can complete the tables from Final task: Part B on this sheet of paper or create a document using OpenOffice Writer or Google Docs (you can check these tutorials and OpenOffice Writer and Google Docs on the Virtual Campus of Digital Education).

3. In the White Tower, you will find some flamboyant armoury.
4. The blonde girl didn’t like the interpreter’s story.
5. The wardens of the Tower of London don’t give information about the tour.

Final task: Part C

Group work. Search for the images and videos (optional) that you would like to include in the posts of the blog. Choose the images from these websites: Pixabay, Max Pixel, Public Domain Pictures and Openclipart.

Then, send the images with the corresponding posts to your teacher. You will get some feedback. Finally, publish all the information on the blog. Here are some tools to design blogs:

- WordPress.
- Blogger (you can check the tutorial of Blogger on the Virtual Campus of Digital Education).
- Edublogs.

Explore the different tools suggested before you decide which is the most appropriate to create a tourist blog. Remember that all the posts are going to be published in one blog. When the blog is ready, share the link with the students from the other courses and invite them to make comments below the different posts.
